

State Highway Work Continues On Overdrafts

Department To Run In Red 9 Months

LANSING — (AP) — The state highway department, one of the beneficiaries of the gas tax increase, expects to run in the red for nine months and then appeal to the legislature for help.

That's the word of Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler.

Ziegler got preliminary approval from the finance committee of the state administrative board to permit overdrafts in the first quarter of the next fiscal year to allow his agency to keep up with road construction and maintenance contracts.

Tax Revenue Misses
He told the committee that his department will fall $6,000,000 short of its expected and needed income next year because of the peculiar effects of the new highway tax distribution formula approved by the legislature along with the 1½-cent a gallon gas tax increase.

The new formula, which went into effect June 1, fails to consider, Ziegler said, that the department is entitled to $4,000,000 worth of gas tax collections on May purchases, not normally all collected until after June 1.

Due Next Fall
It also misses, he said, $2,000,000 in weight (license) tax collections which actually are not due the local units of government until next fall but which already have been distributed under the department's previous policy of spacing out local payments.

Ziegler said he would ask the 1952 legislature to adjust the fund to cover these oversights.

He said he had about $10,000,000 in cash to cover $15,000,000 worth of road projects and a monthly maintenance bill of about $1,500,000.

Iron Ore Mine Strike Spreads

ISHPEMING, Mich. — (AP) — Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company employees stayed away from their jobs for a second day today and both company and union officials apparently are "sitting tight, waiting to see what happens."

Union officials were silent on the walkout other than to comment that it follows and is in sympathy with the Minnesota stoppage. The present dispute centers around the company's job evaluation program initiated in an agreement with the union last December.

The agreement gave CCI employees a 12½ cents an hour pay boost then, with promise of further pay increases for some workers after their jobs had been re-rated. The pay increases would be retroactive to Dec. 1, 1950.

IRON RIVER, Mich. — (AP) — Production was at a standstill today at the Spies mine, operated by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company, following a walkout of 125 employees who, a CIO union spokesman said, are in sympathy with approximately 4,000 company employees idle in Marquette county and in Minnesota.

MacArthur Blocked Manchuria Defense, Wedemeyer Claims

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer testified today he is concerned that the United States may not be able to meet its commitments in Europe or elsewhere "if we continue to pour our efforts into Korea."

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer testified today that he asked for seven American divisions to safeguard Manchuria from Russian penetration after Japan's defeat but was turned down by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Wedemeyer at that time was U. S. commander in China. Testifying for the second day at the Senate inquiry into MacArthur's dismissal, Wedemeyer said he wanted to employ the American troops in Manchuria "to preclude unilateral action on the part of the Soviet in that area until the situation stabilized."

Could Have Averted War
He said another purpose he had in mind was to secure the arms of the Japanese troops in Manchuria for the Chinese Nationalist forces and so keep them out of the hands of the Communists.

His request for the seven U. S. Divisions was referred to MacArthur as the Far East commander.

Texas To Greet Gen. MacArthur

AUSTIN, Tex. — (AP) — The capital of Texas will give Gen. Douglas MacArthur an engraved seal of the city and a rousing welcome when he starts his four-day visit of the state. But that's as far as they'll go.

State Senator John Bell, chairman of the legislative arrangements committee, suggested to Mayor W. S. Drake, Jr. of Austin isn't trying to compete with "our richer neighbors."

Houston, where he makes his second Texas appearance, has rolled out a Cadillac.

Anyway, Austin is ready for the coming of the five-star general tomorrow and Gov. Allan Shivers is going to give him a big "Hello General."

As preparations were completed for MacArthur's welcome in his four-day flying visit, another city was added to the list. Galveston got into the act—the sixth Texas city to see the general.

Sen. Bell has been worrying because he says he has heard rumors or organized boogie of MacArthur. Capt. E. K. Brown, in charge of the department of public safety assured Bell that there would be 15 or 20 Texas rangers on the capital grounds. And there also will be 40 or 50 men from the state highway patrol along with 80 men from the Austin police department to keep order.

commander. Wedemeyer said MacArthur was uncertain about how the Japanese would react to the occupation of their homeland and declined to make the troops available.

Wedemeyer also said he believes the Korean war could have been averted if a United Nations trusteeship over Manchuria had been set up as he recommended in 1947.

If that advice had been followed, he said, Manchuria would not now be "a satellite of the Soviet."

His recommendation was made in his 1947 report on conditions in China and Korea.

Report Kept Secret
The administration kept the report secret for many months. The section on Korea was made public only last May 1.

Secretary of Defense Marshall has testified that he withheld the report from publication partly because it was felt the Chinese Nationalists would take offense at recommendation for a U. N. trusteeship over Manchuria.

Questioning of Wedemeyer was suspended at 11:35 a. m. (EST) until 7 p. m. Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) decided against an afternoon session because committee members had other business but ordered a night meeting — the first in the 33 days of the inquiry.

Crop Prospects Good
Price Director Michael V. DiSalle scheduled separate talks with group of American newspaper publishers to discuss a scheduled $10 a ton rise in the price of Canadian newsprint.

The department of agriculture, in a report late yesterday, said an improvement in weather conditions has brought an upturn in the prospects for the record harvest of food, livestock and fibre crops which the government has asked from the nation's farmers.

Lost Diplomats Baffle Britain
LONDON — (AP) — The biggest international manhunt since the collaring of Nazi war criminals at the end of World War Two kept baffled British officials busy today chasing possible clues to the whereabouts of two foreign office employees.

The quest extended into the rugged crags of the Pyrenees mountains between France and Spain and to ships at sea in the Mediterranean.

The diplomats—brilliant, high-strung Donald D. MacLean, 38, head of the American department at the foreign office, and handsome, pleasure-loving Guy Burgess, 40, former second secretary at the Washington embassy—vanished May 25. They were last seen in France, heading for Paris.

Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison told the House of Commons yesterday there was no evidence that the men had taken any documents with them. He urged that judgement be withheld on the question of whether they might have deserted to the side of Russia.

Hot Dog Price Boost Allowed By OPS Order
Sausage May Follow Rising Beef Costs
By WILLIAM O. VARN
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Hot dogs may go up one to two cents a pound under a price order issued today by the government.

A new Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) regulation permits makers of sausage containing beef—frankfurters, bologna, salami and the like—to adjust their prices upward to allow for increases in the cost of beef since January. The order is effectively at once.

Sausage prices have been frozen at the highest level in the base period covered by a general price freeze—last Dec. 19 through Jan. 25.

The Senate and House banking committees arranged to sit down behind closed doors to start hammering out a bill to extend the basic controls law beyond June 30, when it is now due to expire. In the House, Rep. Spence (D-Ky.) wouldn't suggest a date on which the banking committee heads might have a bill ready.

The senior Republican on the group, Rep. Wolcott of Michigan, said he thinks chances are good the committee can write a bill before June 30. There has been speculation that Congress might approve a stop-gap extension pending action on President Truman's request for a two-year continuance with broader powers.

Choicest Beef Gets Scarcer
CHICAGO — (AP) — Choice cuts of beef, it appeared today, are going to be on the scarce list in many of the nation's butcher shops in a few days.

There still is beef in shops across the country, a survey showed. But the continued slump in cattle marketing, packing spokesmen said, will mean an extremely tight retail supply of beef soon.

After a week of price controls for live beef animals, there appeared no indication of a boost in supplies. Yesterday's cattle shipments to the country's 12 major livestock centers were substantially below normal. Beef processing by leading packers, as during last week, remained drastically curtailed.

Cattle shipments totaled 38,500, the lowest run for a Monday since Feb. 14, 1949, and 6,000 fewer than last Monday. Packing spokesmen expressed doubt about prospects of any substantial increase in slaughtering this week. Three of the biggest packers, Swift, Armour, and Wilson, reported they did no slaughtering in their big Chicago plants yesterday.

Meat Price Controls To Bring Rationing, Retail Chief Claims
LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Full scale meat rationing seems likely within a few weeks, says Charles Bauer, president of the National Association of Retail Meat and Food Dealers.

Bauer, a member of the retail advisory committee of the OPS, says that if this does come to pass, price controls will be to blame. The nation's livestock population dropped alarmingly between 1940 and 1950, Bauer said yesterday, and the contributing cause was the price ceiling and rationing system of World War II.

On the west coast too, Bauer told newsmen the livestock feeder is not going to "take it on the chin" year after year.

"He'll just discontinue; go into another line of business," Bauer said.

Price controls, he argued, are not the answer to any shortage, for "housewives will pay only so much, and no more, for a product."

Air Force Lacks Men; May Call Up Draftees

By C. YATES McDANIEL
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Air Force says it will be unable to meet its June 30 manpower goal of 850,000, and a lack of volunteers may soon cause it to reach for draftees.

Previously, only the army has taken draftees. The Air Force, like the navy and marines, have filled their quotas with volunteers. The Air Force enlisted 56,000 volunteers in January, but the May figure was only 11,000. Air figures for the same months were 29,000 and 9,000. Navy and marine volunteering has also slackened.

Quality Falls Off
Volunteering is now apparently increasing, but an Air Force spokesman told a reporter today: "A continuing dearth of volunteer enlistments would obviously force us to use the draft."

He said the Air Force is worried by the quality of men it is receiving as well as the quantity. Air Force figures show its enlistments during the last two months have been predominantly in the lowest intelligence group.

At the start of this year, the Air Force had a June 30 manpower goal of 971,000. This total was reduced to 850,000 in February, after volunteers temporarily flooded air training facilities beyond capacity.

Air Force strength today stands at about 737,000 with June 30 little more than two weeks off.

In the first six days of June, 4,300 men without previous service volunteered for the Air Force. Officials hoped this upward trend would increase after the end of the school year.

Army Goal Reached
Secretary of the Army Pace said last week the army had already reached its June 30th 1,500,000 manpower goal. This total includes reservists now on active duty and a large number of National Guardsmen.

The navy said today it will meet its programmed 705,000 manpower goal by June 30, although navy volunteering has dropped sharply since the beginning of the year.

Marine corps figures are not available but it is known that the corps has also experienced a let-down in the flow of volunteers. The corps' current manpower goal is 204,000 which will probably be reached by June 30.

British Snubbed In Iran Oil Tiff

TEHRAN, Iran — (AP) — Families of Anglo-Iranian Oil Company employees left the country in a steady stream today as top British officials of the nationalized industry planned courtesy calls on government heads who snubbed them for their arrival from London yesterday.

No Iranian officials turned up at the airport for the arrival of two directors and four other officials of the British-owned oil company, whose vast holdings here Iran's parliament has ordered nationalized.

With the rest of the billion-dollar oil company's delegation—including two other directors—due today, negotiations on the takeover may start tomorrow.

Iran's flag floated symbolically over the company's giant refinery near Abadan—the world's largest, after a peaceful ceremony yesterday at which Iranian directors named to operate the nationalized company were installed in a refinery office allotted them by the British Management.

"I was curious and said I would like to and so I smoked one."

And then another and another. Four months later she tried cocaine. Five months after that she was sniffing heroin.

On her release, she took up with another boy and begun using drugs again.

The next step, she said, was a sex relationship with an older man to obtain money for drugs.

She said she now had met a boy who took a "sincere interest" in her and that she was trying to break the drug habit.

Escanaba May Share In Medical Fund

LANSING—Civil defense directors of 19 cities and eight counties have been called here for a meeting tomorrow afternoon (2 p. m.) to discuss allocation of federal matching funds for medical supplies.

The Michigan office of civil defense sent the invitations after receiving notification that $1,220,000 in federal funds may become available for the state.

Cities Absorb Balance

It was explained that the state budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 sets up $100,000 for medical supplies, all of which is expected to be used to match an equal share of the federal allocation.

The state headquarters expressed the hope that principal Michigan cities will be able to absorb the remaining $678,518 of federal funds on a 50-50 matching basis.

The U. S. funds are for two types of medical supplies. Category one is a list for first aid kits estimated to cost $1,500 each and designed for a civil defense first aid station during the immediate post-disaster.

The kit is said to be sufficient for the medical needs of 600 bomb victims for 24 hours.

Category two supplies are available for supplementing and replenishing existing medical inventories and include a wide variety of items.

Court Guards Norton Estate In New Trial Move; Time Extended

Temporary extension of time to file motion for a new trial yesterday was granted contestants of the John P. Norton will by Judge Glenn W. Jackson, with conditions safeguarding the half-million dollar estate willed for scholarships.

The court gave the contestants until July 2 to file motion for new trial following hearing conducted in chambers at Marquette.

Counsel for contestants Mack and Charles Norton, brothers, and Thomas Norton, nephew of the late Escanaba Daily Press publisher claimed they needed more time to file motion for a new trial.

Given to July 2
The Norton will, bequeathing the bulk of the estate to the Escanaba school district for scholarships for worthy high school graduates, was upheld by verdict of a circuit court jury in Escanaba May 18 following a month-long trial.

On June 7 the contestants filed motion for an extension of time in which to file for a new trial.

Objections to the time extension were entered in an answer by counsel for Atty. James E. Frost, proponent of the Norton will, and the Escanaba board of education.

Estate Protected
"In view of the length of time of this trial and the time necessary to procure a transcript of the testimony taken, it would appear to be a proper basis for granting such an extension," Judge Jackson said in his opinion.

The court also was of the opinion that in granting the extension "the court should protect the estate from any losses or added expenses that might be incurred, so far as it is practicable to do so."

Those conditions surrounding the extension are necessary since "its granting may work much hardship upon the proponent and the estate involved, if the contestants do not prevail."

Losses referred to by the court would include any increase in inheritance taxes that might be incurred, any added costs in administration of the estate, the taxable costs and other items.

Conditions Required
Judge Jackson noted that it would require considerable time for the court reporter to prepare a transcript of testimony of the trial. But the time extension was limited to July 2 to provide opportunity for contestants to comply with the conditions and thus satisfy the court "that the contestants intend, in good faith, to prepare and to proceed with the prosecution of such contemplated motion."

Conditions required by the court in granting the extension of time to July 2 were as follows:
1—Filing of a certificate by the court reporter that contestants have either deposited cost of preparing the transcript or made assurance in writing that it will be paid.

2—Filing by the contestants of a certificate giving the court information similar to the above paragraph.

Must Pay Costs
3—Executing and filing of a bond by the contestants in the sum of $20,000 with surety approved by the court to the executors of the Norton estate.

4—In the event the contestants fail in setting aside the verdict and judgment of the court they shall pay to the executors of the estate all taxable costs and provable loss of damage which may be legally collectible that have occurred to the estate because of the delay in probation of the estate.

If the contestants comply with the conditions the court will make "reasonable extensions" of time to file for new trial; if they do not comply before July 2, no further extension of time will be granted.

Cause Added Expense
"The court is of the opinion that the probate of the estate of John P. Norton should not be deferred unnecessarily, nor for a period of time longer than is necessary, nor without adequate assurance that said estate may be reimbursed for any and all costs and losses that may be occasioned to it by reasons of any further proceedings to litigate the issue as to the allowance of the will of John P. Norton which has been proposed and allowed, in the event that contestants do not prevail in setting aside the verdict and judgment heretofore ordered in this cause.

"The estate involved here approximates about one-half million dollars as indicated from the evidence. Its principal assets is a newspaper known as the Escanaba Daily Press, which requires active management and whose management is rendered difficult under existing conditions. Such continuation of operation while this litigation continues, will involve state shall be reimbursed, if con-added expense, for which the contestants do not prevail."

Too Many Accidents, Michigan Motorists To Pay Higher Rates

EDITORIAL "preaching" about traffic accidents, their causes and cures, have accomplished very little in a material way, as the accident figures prove, but the punch in the purse announced by the insurance underwriters may have more effect.

Insurance rates for Michigan motorists have taken a sharp rise because of adverse experience. There are more accidents and each accident costs more. Hospital fees are higher and garage bills are higher. So insurance rates must be higher, too.

We indicated in the first paragraph that perhaps the higher insurance rates may have a sobering effect upon motorists so that they may suddenly develop greater caution in their driving. Actually we do not believe that this will materialize. The

France Can Not Alibi For Delay On Troops

MOVED by political and military realities and a genuine understanding of an ally's problems, responsible Americans have leaned over backwards to avoid judging harshly the slow pace of French rearmament.

It was recognized that the French, like other Europeans, needed the psychological boost of knowing that America would support European defense. The recent landing of the first units of a fresh U. S. division in Germany, plus the definite promise of three more divisions, affords that fundamental assurance.

Allowances were made, too, for the fact that France had an election coming up this year and that French leaders had to tread easy on some of the delicate issues affecting rearmament.

That election will take place June 17. Afterwards the French will no longer be able to argue reasonably that they cannot take certain necessary steps for fear of unpopularity.

In other words, June 17 is in the nature of a deadline in the French rearmament program. Beyond that time, neither Americans nor any other free peoples concerned for the safety of Europe are likely to welcome excuses for delay.

The original target for a European defense army called for 60 divisions by 1953. Of these 30 to 35 were to be organized by the end of 1951. But the North Atlantic Treaty Organization under General Eisenhower now has scaled this figure down to 25 divisions by winter.

The French have promised to supply 10 of these 25. Defense Minister Jules Moch says this goal will be achieved, though some European observers are doubtful. Most disturbing is the fact that only half the total would be in the field. The remainder would be held in reserve, capable of being mobilized on three days' notice.

It's questionable whether French soldiers resting comfortably in their homes would act as an effective deterrent to a Russian intent on aggression in Western Europe. Three days is a long time in this age of sudden assault.

Reports from France indicate that the French are not yet even preparing ground installations to receive the troops of the expanding European force.

By fall, the flow of American arms abroad will be substantial. If Eisenhower's mission is to have any meaning, the troops should be on hand to use those weapons.

Until America committed fresh forces to Europe to bolster Allied morale, the burden of proof of earnest purpose was upon us. Now it is upon the Europeans, and particularly the French.

The time for alibis, legitimate or otherwise, is passing. Not even the shortage of officers caused by French participation in the Indo-China fighting can be an excuse. For that war is not likely to end soon, and Europe's defense can't be left to chance until it is concluded.

In the last half of 1951 the world will learn much about how the French value their freedom.

TOO MUCH INVENTION
(Christian Science Monitor)

The Tennessee Valley Authority has simply outdone itself. All unwittingly, no doubt, but nevertheless the evidence is there—right in the hands of the "revenue-men," or practically so.

For generations it has been a telltale whisp of smoke after the morning haze had risen from the mountain-sides that was the moonshiner's nemesis; it gave away the location of his still to "them furnurers" from the treasury department.

But from Chattanooga, Tennessee, comes a report that Sheriff Rex Richey has brought in from Daisy Mountain a seized still which avoided that disadvantage. It used electric heating elements and cheap TVA power.

Now, the TVA has encouraged many kinds of inventiveness in its area, from a kitchen-size flour grinder to a barn-size hay arier. Little might its officials suspect that they were subsidizing crime. They have been accused of stealing away New England industries, though the charge is denied, but if by encouraging substitution of electricity for cordwood they have obstructed the collection of internal revenue, then they have really fouled themselves up—this time with another branch of the federal bureaucracy.

Iran's Contract A 'Scrap Of Paper'?

PEOPLE in the western nations are well aware of the nationalist ferment which is pushing the government of Iran into extremist positions on the issue of taking over the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.

But Iranian officials may come to regret the violence of their tirades against any and all opposition. Recently they flatly told the World Court the issue was none of its business. Yet Iran is a signatory to the articles establishing that court and is thus bound legally to respect its jurisdiction and its findings.

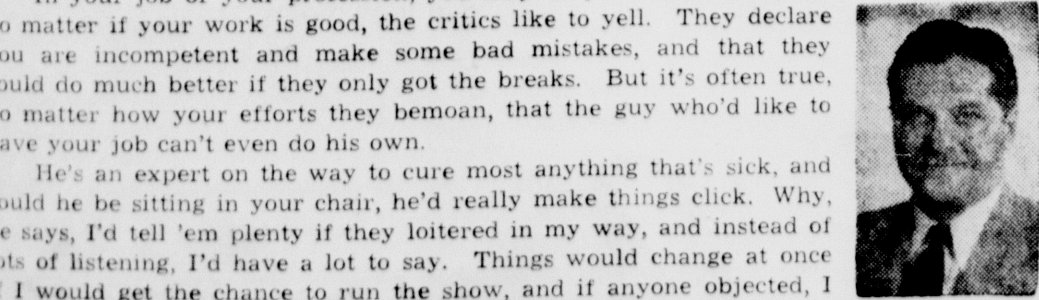

Some day Iran may decide it needs the Court, or the United Nations. Its irrational flaunting of its own extremist views will not then stand it in good stead.

Critics

In your job or your profession, you may do your labor well, but no matter if your work is good, the critics like to yell. They declare you are incompetent and make some bad mistakes, and that they could do much better if they only got the breaks. But it's often true, no matter how your efforts there bemoan, that the guy who'd like to have your job can't even do his own.

He's an expert on the way to cure most anything that's sick, and could be he sitting in your chair, he'd really make things click. Why, he says, I'd tell 'em plenty if they loitered in my way, and instead of lots of listening, I'd have a lot to say. Things would change at once if I would get the chance to run the show, and if anyone objected, I would tell him where to go.

Thus he's sure within his mind that he could do your job with ease, even though he hasn't made an opportunity to seize. He's so busy criticizing you he has to slight his work, and he's just a mediocre chap who much prefers to sulk. Thus it's true, no matter how your efforts other folks bemoan, that the guy who'd like to have your job can't even do his own.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Big, balding Louey Johnson has taken his demise as secretary of defense with far better grace than most men who are bounced from the cabinet. Another who served in that post cracked up. Others have sulked or turned against the president.

Johnson, however, has not. In fact, he recently had a friendly talk with the man who fired him, Harry S. Truman—partly as a result of a radio broadcast.

For a time, the Republicans were confident they had Louey Johnson in their corner. They were especially jubilant when the MacArthur hearings started, for they counted on Johnson as a star witness against the administration. Supposedly it was all set for him to testify regarding his talks with MacArthur in Tokyo.

But when word to this effect was forecast on the air by this newscaster, Brig. Gen. Louis Renfrow who heard the broadcast and who was Johnson's assistant in the defense department, telephoned him.

"I just heard what Drew Pearson said, Louey," urged Renfrow, "and I don't want you to do anything until we can talk it over."

Next day they had lunch together.

"I've been your good friend and stuck by you," Renfrow said, "but we'll have to say good-bye if you start hitting the administration on this MacArthur issue. You stay out of it. You never had a real quarrel with Dean Acheson. It was only with some of his subordinates."

Johnson agreed.

"Will you phone Drew and tell him that?" Renfrow asked. Johnson agreed to call and did so.

Renfrow then went to the president, told him of the conversation and the president immediately phoned Johnson to thank him. They had a pleasant talk, the first since Louey left the cabinet.

MISSOURI FRIENDSHIPS DON'T FADE

Eastern senators are up in arms over the proposed appointment of a new Interstate Commerce commissioner from Missouri. Since the ICC has the important power of regulating the nation's railroads, a group of senators have introduced a resolution requiring ICC commissioners to be appointed regionally. This is aimed to prevent the Missouri appointment and to secure the appointment of Robert R. Hendon of Maryland, not Missouri.

The Missourian whom President Trumanman proposes to appoint is Ray Karst, ex-congressman from St. Louis.

What the protesting senators don't know is the inside reason why he has Truman's support. Karst's mother happens to be one of the first political leaders in St. Louis to come out for Truman in 1934 when he was elected to the Senate. Some years later, when Karst was in Congress, he brought his 75-year-old mother in to see the president.

"If it hadn't been for you and a few other loyal supporters in St. Louis," Truman told Mrs. Karst, "I wouldn't be where I am today."

And he gave the congressman's children, Mary Jane, 9, and Ronnie, 7, each a shiny new ball-point pencil with the admission: "Don't let any FBI men see you with the pencils. They might put you in jail." The saucer-eyed youngsters quickly hid the pencils. They were inscribed: "I swiped this from Harry S. Truman."

Last year, Congressman Karst was defeated for re-election. And the other day, hearing that someone else was to be appointed to the Interstate Commerce commission, he dropped round to the White House, told the president that he was out of a job, and got a job which made his eyes shine like those of his two children.

Hendon, the Marylander slated for the job, had the potent support of Senator Bob Kerr of Oklahoma; also of Senate Majority Leader McFarland, who attended the University of Oklahoma with Hendon. Hendon is also well-qualified, being a current member of the Defense Transportation administration.

With Harry Truman, however, old friendships do not die. They don't even fade away.

French Reds Fight With Backs To Wall

New Election Laws May Cost Commies 60 Seats in Assembly

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS—(NEA)—For the first time since the liberation of France the Communists are fighting with their backs to the wall.

To make up for the lack of enthusiasm on the part of the apathetic and frightened French voters, they seek to create an atmosphere of civil war in the country.

In the recently dissolved National Assembly, the Communists and their allies had 160 deputies. Because of the new electoral law they may lose 60 or more seats in the new Assembly, it is estimated.

In the 1946 national elections seats in the Assembly were divided proportionally in each election district. Each political party received a number of seats in direct ratio to the number of voter who chose its ticket. This gave the Communists their big chance. They were able to cash in on the pro-Soviet sentiment that was prevalent in Europe in 1946.

The new law provides that any party getting a majority of votes—in any of the election districts—sweeps all the seats in that district.

In divided France, with its multiparty system, it is usually difficult to get a clean majority for any single political party. According to the law, therefore, several parties in an election district can affiliate with each other as an election alliance.

If two or three or four parties, by pooling their votes, can win a majority in a district, they sweep all the seats in the National Assembly for the alliance. They then divide the seats among themselves.

This leaves the Communists at a disadvantage. No democratic

The pro-Moscow Communists fear the "Titoist" dissidents. They have been carrying on a lynch campaign against them. Militarized underground squads of the pro-Russian party have been breaking up the Titoist meetings by force of arms and molesting their leaders.

But the rapidly deteriorating economic situation in France is also playing into the hands of Stalin's followers. Rising prices and the wage-earner continued low standard of living are the Communists' most important ally.

Since January, prices in France increased by 20 per cent. This practically nullified whatever wage increases French labor received following the recent round of strikes.

The Marshall Plan succeeded in partly restoring French production. It gave a promise of economic stability and a better life for the masses. But the Korean War and the NATO's rearmament program led to a scramble for raw materials. This sent prices soaring, raised production costs and upset all economic calculations.

The threat to labor's living standards makes it easy for the Communists to claim that the so-called capitalist world—led by U. S. "imperialism"—aims to starve the European workers in order to prepare a war against Russia. The Soviet Union is, of course, depicted as the worker's paradise.

Edouard Herriot, former Premier of France and one of the last survivors of a generation of great French statesmen, recently warned the French people against the "deadly danger" to the Republican regime if the next Assembly were to be gripped in the pincers of "two monolithic oppositions."

He called on Frenchmen to "reflect on the solemnity of the present juncture" before giving their votes either to the RPF or to the Communists whose presence in large numbers in the next Assembly would produce "new convulsions, which might be mortal."

THE WINGED PLAGUE—Perhaps because of frequent rains the mosquitoes have been particularly plentiful this spring.

Mosquitoes always are pests and they increase in annoyance as they multiply in numbers. A walk in the woods is like running an Indian gauntlet—with the Indians armed with red hot pokers.

Various means have been advocated for decimating the mosquito hordes, but there still remains but one sure and personal method of eradication. A hard slap, applied at the proper moment at the strategic location of attack, is the best means of defense.

The only good mosquito is a dead mosquito.

MASS LIQUIDATION—The blood-thirsty insects have been the victims of mass attack this spring, with an Escanaba man responsible for liquidation of unnumbered millions of them.

He is Jon Thorin, bug bomber, whose services have been in growing demand these past few years in northern Wisconsin and the Upper Peninsula. His spraying equipment has been used to knock off pests infesting forest trees and farmers' fields.

More recently he has returned to spraying whole areas to reduce the mosquito plague. Resort areas in Wisconsin have heard the roar of his airplane and felt the gentle spray that falleth like a deadly rain upon the mosquitoes.

THE SURE CURE—Thorin has been employed to "bomb" the mosquitoes at a couple locations along the bay shore south of Escanaba this spring, and more jobs are in the making.

Even if all the mosquitoes are not immediately killed off, their numbers are reduced so that outdoor living can be enjoyable instead of unendurable.

There still remains the necessity to apply the old-fashioned control method in other areas. The story is told of the sportsman, often the target for mosquito attacks, who answered an advertisement for a "sure cure" against mosquitoes.

Answering the ad he received by mail two thin wooden paddles. "Place the mosquito between the paddles and then bring them quickly together," the instructions advised.

SMOKE AND STINK—Such old-fashioned methods may be thorough but they are not very effective.

Neither are smoking smudge pots or some of the so-called repellants now on the market. The smudges serve to discourage the insects so long as the intended victim stays in the smoke. But if he stays there too long he will come out looking and smelling more like a smoked herring than a human being.

As for many of the liquid repellants, they seldom stand the test. If the mosquitoes are really hungry they come up holding their noses but with stingers ready and drill right through the mosquito dope.

IT WAS EVER SO—This North Country (sometimes referred to as God's country) has always been plentifully supplied with mosquitoes.

Early explorers took note of them only in passing, since the mosquitoes were but minor annoyances in a life of great hardship and hazard. Later travelers, more accustomed to the comforts of civilization, were more annoyed by the insect pests.

The Indians were not particularly vulnerable to mosquito attacks, perhaps because of their mode of primitive life, according to early-day accounts. Fur traders who adopted Indian ways also found insects only a minor detail in the total picture of wilderness life.

But today's white men, comfortably housed, adequately fed, and accustomed to window screens and clean sheets rate the blood-sucking mosquito as No. 1 enemy in the outdoors.

Take My Word For It . . . Frank Colby Jr.

WHAT'S THE ORIGIN?

The word curfew is an English corruption of the French couvre-feu, "cover fire." In parts of Europe during the Middle Ages a law required householders to cover or extinguish their lights and fires on the stroke of a bell in the evening. The sounding of the bell was called couvre-feu, which became the English curfew and lost all association with the act of covering fires or lights.

"As poor as Job's turkey" is a saying that is more than a century old. It refers to an imaginary turkey which had the qualities of putrefaction and poverty of its "owner." Job, of course the turkey was unknown in Biblical days, for the bird is a native of North America.

In the 1800's, the saying was very popular in the United States, and people used to give it many comical variations, saying, "As poor as Job's turkey that had but one feather to its tail," or, "... that had to lean against a fence to gobble," or, "... that was too lean to cast a shadow." Thus the poor bird and the proverbial church mouse have a good deal in common.

The origin of "face the music" is uncertain. I have found three theories as to how this expression originated:

1. The origin of "face the music" is uncertain. I have found three theories as to how this expression originated:

1. It is of theatrical origin, first being used by actors who were nervously preparing to go before the footlights and literally face the music (the orchestra or pianist).

2. It is traced to the military formation, such as retreat. The soldier in full equipment, stands at attention and faces the music.

3. At a military execution, the condemned one is made to stand facing both the firing squad and the music—that is, the bugler or the drum and bugle corps.

"Well heeled" is probably traceable to the jargon of the cockpit. The spur or gaff placed on the spur of a game cock is often called a heel. The bird that has a good natural spur or a well-placed steel gaff is said to be well heeled, hence, quite able to give a good account of himself.

Detroit Transit Strike Hopeful

DETROIT—(AP)—On its 53rd day Detroit's trolley car and bus driver's strike gave some hope today of settlement.

The basis for it was a long-awaited court verdict, but there still were reported a number of "ifs" in the way.

At the same time Mayor Albert E. Cobo and city transport officials sent out orders to prepare the huge system for early re-operation. It carries about 1,000,000 passengers daily.

The wage strike of 3,500 AFL drivers—which turned into a fight as well over a state law forbidding strikes of public employees—has been the longest major city transit walkout in U. S. history.

Circuit Judge Ira W. Jayne handed down the court verdict yesterday.

Judge Jayne rejected the city's petition for an injunction to halt strikers from "interfering" with the system but also held that the state law (Hutchinson act) applied to the strikers.

Under the law, the strikers were fined and face penalties on re-hiring. It may yet be tested in the state supreme court.

American Thunderjet Planes Vanish Over Communist Europe

FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—The U. S. air force last night abandoned its three-day search for two U. S. jet fighters feared to have crashed somewhere in Communist Europe.

The hunt was called off after long range planes and helicopters had combed western Germany along the Iron Curtain border in a vain quest for the two F-84 Thunderjets which vanished Friday.

An air force spokesman said if the jets had gone down in the western zones, the air force undoubtedly would have received word by now. He added the disappearance has been reported to the Soviet air controller in Berlin.

The air force said the jets were armed with the usual complement of guns.

Pocket Bible Saves Muskegon Soldier, Wounded In Korea

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—(AP)—In April Pfc. Jess B. Holcomb, fighting in Korea, was wounded.

He recovered and returned to action. Now his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse D. Holcomb, learn in a letter from him that he has been wounded again—and that luck and his Bible were on his side.

Holcomb was wounded in the left side and knee from a shell burst. The Bible in his left shirt pocket, over his heart, stopped the largest fragment.

Air-Sea Rescue Ends Long Drift

Four Sheboygan Men On Water 45 Hours

An air-sea rescue accomplished this morning by Coast Guard and Conservation department personnel ended a harrowing 45-hour drift in the waters of Green Bay by four Sheboygan, Wis., men in a 26-foot steel craft.

The helpless craft was manned by Don Schermerling, skipper, Henry VanDusen, Ted Dahlke, and James Bayens, sr., all of Sheboygan. The boat had been drifting without power since 11 a. m., Sunday when it was rescued by District Conservation Commission Supervisor John Chriske and two aides this morning.

Chriske and Leonard McDonald and Leonard Lamb of Patrol Boat No. 4 were cruising in Chriske's PB-19 early this morning when a Coast Guard airplane from the Traverse City base buzzed the little craft with a distress signal.

Follow-up plane

On the second trip over the Conservation boat the plane headed off into Green Bay in a southerly direction. Following the plane for about six miles, the conservation men came upon the drifting craft from Sheboygan.

Its occupants had a discouraging story of false hopes and hungry despair to tell when they were finally landed at the dock in the yacht basin here at 11 a. m., this morning.

The quartet had put out from Sheboygan last Saturday morning to come to Escanaba for a pike fishing jaunt. They arrived here Saturday night and left early Sunday seeking good fishing waters.

Motor Conks Out

About four miles off Washington Island their motor conked out and they drifted helplessly through that day and night, with nothing but a few dry sandwiches to eat.

Monday they sighted several boats but were unable to summon assistance until a small sail boat pulled up and heard their story. Leaving a few slices of bread and meat, all they had on board, the sailors left promising to notify the Coast Guard of their position and identification marks.

Nothing more was seen by the drifters until night when they vainly signaled a nearby boat with flares improvised with towels soaked in gasoline.

Drifted 16 Miles

When they spotted the Coast Guard plane this morning they were sure that help was on its way and the four men weakly but enthusiastically greeted the PB-19 when it hove into sight an hour later.

Refreshed with coffee and a few sandwiches on board, the men were in good spirits when they docked at the basin and a crowd of curious onlookers. The PB-19 had towed the powerless craft about five miles.

Checking by maps and charts, the rescuers estimated that the Sheboygan craft had drifted about 16 miles in its 45-hour stretch on the bay.

Red China Gathers Up More Cash To Keep War Going In Korea

HONG KONG — (AP)—The Chinese Communist money raising campaign for planes, tanks and heavy guns for their "volunteers" in Korea has moved into high gear.

The drive indicates that Red China is a long way from counting itself out in Korea. Red leaders on June 2 asked the people to "volunteer" funds for the country's rearmament campaign.

For the past two days, the official new China news agency has published a long list of "early returns" purporting to show that all sectors of China are responding to the appeal.

The English language Hong Kong Standard reported Shanghai has been assessed a "contribution" quota of roughly $4,500,000 (U. S.). That is a staggering sum for the tax-bled, industrially stagnant city. It is only some $800,000 less than Peiping recently collected from the whole country for the "comforting and relief" fund for troops in Korea.

Blueprints Of Rocket Found In Waste Paper From Detroit Hotel

DETROIT—(AP)—Rocket plan blueprints, found in a stack of wastepaper in a downtown Detroit hotel (Book-Cadillac) today were checked by naval intelligence.

The officers declined to discuss the plans, pending a report to higher headquarters. They also refused to say whether they are classified as secret.

The blueprints were spotted by Marvin Chaffin, a maintenance man, as they were about to be baled for sale as scrap. He called a butler attendant, Chester J. Louks, a navy veteran, who in turn notified naval authorities.

Intelligence officers commended the two Monday.

Hedy Lamarr Weds Again, May Retire From Film Career

WEST LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Hedy Lamarr and night club operator Ernest (Ted) Stauffer, pulling a surprise on Hollywood, were married last night at the home of superior judge Stanley Mosk, who performed the ceremony.

It was the fourth marriage for the Austrian-born actress and the second for Stauffer, onetime bandleader. Both were divorced in 1947, she from Actor John Loder and he from actress Faith Domergue.

The couple had obtained a marriage license earlier in the evening at the Santa Monica branch of the county clerk's office. Stauffer, a Swiss who now operates the La Perla club in Acapulco, Mexico, gave his age as 42. Miss LaMarr gave her age as 35.

The actress told a reporter before leaving for a honeymoon at Carmel, Calif.

"I am going to devote my life to him," pointing to the tall, blond Stauffer.

She indicated that she is thinking about retiring from the films.

Gambler Cohen Dozes While Witnesses Tell Of His $50 Neckties

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Mickey Cohen dozed in federal court while wide-awake spectators heard about the dapper gambler paying $50 apiece for neckties.

A parade of tradesmen yesterday unfolded Cohen's well-known fondness for expensive haberdashery. This tax evasion trial is in its second week.

William A. Fitzgald, local representative of A. Sulka, New York haberdasher, said Cohen spent $7,076 with him in 1947, mostly on ties and socks.

However, he added that he forced Cohen to return $8,500 of the merchandise when he found Cohen reselling it in his own haberdashery.

Beef Rollbacks To Stay, Chief Of Mobilization Says

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson today rejected demands of the cattle industry for price relief in four words—"the rollbacks are firm."

Wilson told a news conference there is no plan to relax either the present 10 per cent rollback on the price of live cattle or the scheduled rollbacks of 4½ per cent each in August and October.

He conceded that "we will be in a terrible mess" if cattle raisers cut off the flow of beef to market. He said he hoped they would not.

But when asked whether his office of defense mobilization had any plans for rationing if the flow were curtailed, he replied with emphasis: "No."

"We have a tremendous cattle population, and the ceiling prices are good according to most economists," the ODM director said.

Michigan Student's 'Dry Ice' Burns Come Up In Court Hearing

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(AP)—The alleged "dry ice" burns of George Cox, University of Michigan sophomore from Cheyenne, Wyo., were due to be discussed in open court here today.

Cox, 19, is on trial for allegedly making a false report to police. He has pleaded innocent to the charge, which carries a possible penalty of 90 days in jail and a fine of $100.

On May 10, detective Sgt. Claude Damon said Monday, Cox told him that he was assaulted on May 3 by a gang of teen age hoodlums who burned his arms and legs with dry ice.

After the assault, Cox said, he crawled back to the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity house, two blocks away. From there, he was taken to University Health Service and then to University hospital.

The delay in reporting the case has been hit by chief assistant prosecutor Edmund Devine, who is conducting the case against Cox. The prosecution is seeking to prove that the story is a fake.

Jury Picked In Trial Of Negro Accused Of Twin Desert Killing

RIVERSIDE, Calif.—(AP)—Atorneys today began selection of a jury in the murder trial of Air Force Sgt. Lawrence J. Walker, 20-year-old Negro.

Thirty-eight jurors out of a hastily-summoned new panel of 80 were excused yesterday for reasons of health, work or scruples against the death penalty. Two of those excused are Negroes.

The new panel was called after superior court excused the regular panel last week on a defense contention that it did not represent a true racial cross-section. Four Negroes and three Mexican-Americans were in the new panel. The Newark, N. J., sergeant, is

Economy Bloc Maps $400,000,000 Cut In Federal Salary Bill

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A Senate economy bloc aiming to cut at least $400,000,000 off the annual federal salary bill hopes to strike its first telling blow today.

The test is on an amendment by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) to cut ten per cent off all personnel items in the $2,528,338,000 money bill for the labor department and the federal security agency for the year starting July 1.

The federal civilian payroll now is running at an annual rate of more than $8,300,000,000, near the peak reached in World War Two.

Ferguson plans to offer his ten per cent reduction amendment on all of the funds bill for the new fiscal year if he is successful in attaching it to the first one—the labor-federal security measure. The Senate debated it at length yesterday, but did not vote.

The Michigan senator said $400,000,000 was the minimum which he hoped could be saved by his amendment.

Taranto Remains Red Stronghold In Italian Vote

ROME—(AP)—Anti-Communists today won control of historic Florence but the Reds held stubbornly to their last great Italian port stronghold, Taranto.

These were the latest significant results as returns mounted from the third round of Italian local elections.

Premier Alcide de Gasperi's anti-Communist forces polled 113,181 votes in Florence to 107,398 for the Communists, who since the end of the war had administered the city.

Incomplete returns showed anti-Communists also leading in northern Turin, Italy's automobile center. There the Communists had won nearly two to one over the Christian Democrats in the 1946 municipal elections.

The vote stood today at 178,596 for the anti-Reds and 131,097 for the Communist bloc, in 620 of the city's 814 sections.

Almost complete returns showed the Communists still gripping the southern port city of Taranto—the last major Italian port still in Red hands politically. Christian Democrat forces stropped Communists of control in Genoa, Venice and Ancona in the May 27 elections.

President Assured Iran Oil Deal Won't Pinch World Supply

TEHRAN, Iran—(AP)—Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadeq has assured President Truman Iran's plans to nationalize her oil industry will not jeopardize the world's oil supply, nor imperil international harmony.

The little statement sent these assurances in a lengthy letter transmitted to Washington yesterday through the U. S. embassy.

The contents of Mossadeq's letter were disclosed as top officials of Britain's Anglo-Iranian Oil company planned courtesy calls on government heads here prior to the opening of talks on the nationalization of Iran's oil industry operated by the company.

Mossadeq's letter was in reply to President Truman's recent appeal to Iran and Britain for moderation and reasonable negotiations of the explosive oil issue.

Lake Superior Rise Breaks All Records

LANSING—(AP)—The levels of two of the Great Lakes broke all records in May, the U. S. Lake Survey report showed today.

Lake Superior climbed 36 feet over the April reading to a level which stood 26 feet above the previous high May reading in 1916.

Lake Ontario rose 51 feet in the month to stand 36 feet above the previous May high in 1908.

Lakes Michigan and Huron climbed 58 feet, St. Clair 33 feet and Erie, 24 feet over April.

Refugee Girl Writes To Folks In Shanghai; Gets Photo Of Heads

TAIPEH, Formosa—(AP)—A refugee Chinese girl living at Tainan, Formosa, recently wrote to her family in Communist Shanghai.

In reply, she received a picture. It showed the heads of her mother, father, sister and brother—her entire family—resting on a table.

An American woman in Tainan who knows the girl well told the story.

Communications between this island and the Chinese mainland have come to a virtual halt because of Communist reprisals. People living here say they dare not write relatives on the mainland for fear of exposing them to death.

Bride-Elect Takes Fatal Poison Dose, Ends U. M. Romance

CHICAGO—(AP)—The poison death of an attractive 19-year-old bride elect was termed a suicide yesterday by a coroner's jury.

Dr. Thomas A. Carter, a coroner's physician, attributed the death of Pamela Ann Meyer, to poisoning.

Miss Meyer was married in August to James W. Farrington, 23, of Chicago, president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad. Theirs was a campus romance at the University of Michigan. They had been engaged since April.

The young woman was found dying Sunday night in the office of Dr. James I. Farrell, an Evanston physician for whom she had been a receptionist since February. No notes were found and no motive for her suicide was advanced at the inquest.

Ceiling May Prevent $10 Newsprint Price Increase For U. S. A.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Price Director Michael V. DiSalle said today the American government may decide to place a ceiling on the amount newspaper publishers can pay for newsprint.

He said there will be a check to determine whether the action is legal. He said there is "some question" about this because newspaper publishers under the law are exempt from price control.

The action, if taken would be designed to check plans of at least four big Canadian newsprint producers to raise prices $10 a ton July 1. That would raise newsprint prices in New York to $116 a ton.

The American government has no control over Canadian prices. Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson disclosed today, however, that he has personally asked Canadian officials to prevent, if possible, the scheduled price increase.

Advise Control For Quackgrass

Dry Weather An Ally, Farmers Are Told

It takes drying weather to kill quackgrass roots after they are dragged out on top by the field cultivator during summer fallow.

Weather records over a twenty-year period at Chatham show that there are more drying days and lower rainfall during the first three weeks of July than during any other period of the summer. This is the normal haying season in the Upper Peninsula. It is also the best season for controlling quackgrass.

How can you summer fallow and make hay at the same time during this period when both jobs ought to be done? Cut the hay on the field to be summer fallowed early and put it into the silo, says J. L. Heirman, Delta county agricultural agent. Quackgrass makes high quality hay or silage when cut during the last two weeks of June.

Nitrogen Dressing
Weather conditions during this period usually won't permit putting it up as hay, but it can be wilted to 60 to 70 per cent moisture and put into the silo. The agent cites information from A. R. Wolcott Upper Peninsula crops and soils specialist for Michigan State College.

If quackgrass has been tondressed with nitrogen early in the spring, there will be a good tonnage of grass for cutting by June 15 to 25. The extra growth stimulated by the nitrogen will have used up extra food reserves from the quackgrass roots. The roots will be weaker and more easily injured by drying.

As soon as the grass is in the silo, and before haying season begins on the rest of the hay land, let the summer fallow off to a good start by going over the piece two or three times in quick succession with the field cultivator. Start shallow and go a little deeper each time. You want to rake take roots out on top, not tear them up in clods.

After haying season starts, there is always a day, or a half-day, now and then when hay can't be put up. Use these days to keep the summer fallow going. Once over with the field cultivator every week or ten days will keep the top growth covered and turn up new roots to dry out. Five or six such periodic cultivations during July and the first part of August will have brought the quack under control to the point where a cover crop can be planted by August 15.

Excessive summer fallow cultivation burns up valuable organic matter and breaks down the desired granular structure of the soil. It is important that the job of quackgrass control be completed over as short a time as possible. The dry periods in July are the time when this can be done most effectively.

Laying the field down to a cover crop, such as rye, oats or rape, in mid-August will provide a growing cover for the soil to protect it from losses of plant food by leaching and erosion through the fall and winter. Many weed seeds will germinate during the late summer and fall to provide additional green cover. Freezing will kill many of these. The rest will be destroyed by late fall or early spring plowing.

Video Hurts Show Business

Attendance Cut By TV Programs

By ROBERT C. RUARK
NEW YORK—Went to a good ball game on a fine, sunny Sunday recently and noticed you could have shot off the fabled cannon with minute chance of maiming a spectator. Noticed too that the usual number of apartment-house peepers, who used to free-load from roofs and windows nearby, weren't in evidence.

Read also that the Joe Louis-Lee Savold television rights have been sold to a group of theaters. All of it must add up to the possibility that the TV-set owner has about run his course as a free spectator of stuff he used to trouble himself financially to attend.

There is no mistaking a truth: On a reasonably good screen, baseball, boxing, horse racing and football come more clearly to the client than if he had the best seat at the scene. Apart from the dubious benefits of fresh air and the high price of beer at the outdoor sports, there is no real excuse for attendance. For the indoor sports, there is no excuse for breathing smoke at all if you can wangle a view on a fair-grade set.

Theaters Hard Hit

So simply, then, television is murdering outside entertainment as a paid-admissions business, and so entertainment has a simple choice: Take over television and become purely show business via a fresh approach. This means that the emphasis is off the box office and on the TV advertiser. If the weight is heavy enough on the advertiser, he must find some way to shrug it off onto the consumer.

I think that in the case of most big sports events you will see them eventually in theaters or else some hero with a big budget who is peddling breakfast bulgies will conclude that his audience will be grateful enough for his product to absorb the difference between box-office profit and sponsor fee.

On the moving-picture side, theaters have been closing like crazy, and there, too, the boys must work out something in the way of compromise with the brightening convenience of the TV set. A lot of the entertainment via video is bad, but so is a lot of entertainment via that what I choose to call the silver screen. Difference being that there's so much entertainment for free on the TV that some of it, like the Garroway show, must be good. And some more, like the Kukla, Fran and Ollie job, is classic. And it's there for the price of a beer in a saloon or a small down payment and a sharp but frequent installment.

ing the other night that the movies have deglamorized themselves considerably because of the cessation of aloofness by the stars. This seems to be true: You cannot twist a TV knob without seeing some Hollywood hotshot making what passes for conversation as a guest on somebody's dog-food extravaganza. The moon pitcher queen ain't a queen any more. She's right there in your living room, with her hair hanging down. There are more picture people in New York today than there are pigeons in the park. And they're all—not the pigeons—shooting for a TV spot. Movies forthwith got to suffer.

It's All Free

You do not stand in a queue to hear Frankie sing or see Marianne Velour in a picture when you get Frankie right in your house and Marianne is as familiar to the family as the milkman. I will take Miss Eileen Wilson on TV as a singer rather than pay for her at the Paramount, because she is closer to the eye and ear, and Miss Margaret Whiting comes more deeply into my affection if I can see her as well as hear her. And for free.

For free Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca keep me out of night clubs, mostly, and it is merely a matter of time before by boy Bushkin will play his piano steadily for the cameras. This will keep me away from Bushkin's company, which will turn out to be a boon to us both. At least I'll get to bed earlier.

The crisis that the whole business of professional entertainment faces is not the extinction of any art form, such as razzing, or the passage of the "B" movie from our Ken, but just how they can get together with television to insure that the consumer pays as

Ryder Is Speaker
At Rotary Meeting

Walter S. Ryder, professor of economics at Central Michigan College of Education, Mt. Pleasant was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Manistique Rotary club Monday noon.

Ryder, here to speak at Manistique high school graduation exercises Monday night, said that the American people are at last becoming aware of the threat to freedom and are determined to do something about it.

In particular, he pointed out, the Communist threat is being exposed and steps being taken to counteract it by the United States. He referred to the recent supreme court upholding of the conviction of 11 communist conspirators and also to the passage of an anti-communist amendment last fall by Michigan voters.

He said that this country is too lax in its treatment of aliens who, without intending to become citizens, visit the United States and deride our type of government.

The speaker reported that there are about 750 bona fide communists in Michigan.

He was introduced by A. F. Hall, public school superintendent.

Theme Of Giving
At Baccalaureate

Discussing the theme, "It is more blessed to give than to receive," Rev. F. M. Scheringer, pastor of St. Francis de Sales church, delivered the baccalaureate sermon to Manistique high school graduates Sunday evening in the high school auditorium.

"In all the inspired writings there are no words which express more clearly, concisely and adequately the campaign of the young graduate and form an absolutely true philosophy of living than the words of our Lord—not recorded in the gospel but quoted by St. Paul who, no doubt, received them from St. Luke. They are found in the Acts of the Apostles, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.'"

"Is it not true," Rev. Scheringer asked, "that the real basic conflict in the world is between those who are determined to GET and those who are disposed to GIVE?"

Continuing his message, Rev. Scheringer said: "If your supreme strategy is to be governed by a desire to give, then, logically, you will utilize every resource at your command. You will choose a place in life. You will work with your head and your hands in order not to be a liability to others. You will rejoice in the possession of every earthly treasure insofar as it

Baseball For Kids To Begin

First Practice Is
2 P. M. Wednesday

All boys interested in organized baseball are requested to report for initial practice at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the fairgrounds, it is announced by T. H. Reque, city recreation director.

As in the past, the players will be classified according to age and ability. The age groups are mites, ages 5 to 11; midlets, ages 12 to 14; and juniors, 14 years and up.

Last season approximately 220 boys reported for practice and once classified played daily Monday through Friday, and also took part in inter-city matches, Reque said. A total of 67 inter-city games were played among the combined classes.

It is expected that an even larger group will register this summer. Reque reported, and playgrounds are being readied for the anticipated rush.

The Fifth street, Hiawatha, fairgrounds and court house diamonds will be used. Particularly large enrollment in the two younger classes have made five diamonds necessary. Equipment to accommodate all has been purchased.

All games will be supervised. Because several games are played at the same time, more supervisory officials will be needed, Reque said. Adults interested in baseball are invited to aid in the supervisory program.

Players are asked to bring their own gloves.

Entry Deadline
For Softball Is Midnight Friday

Manistique softball players are again reminded that Friday at midnight, June 15, is the deadline for entries in the city softball league.

All entry fees must be paid to Richard Berger, league treasurer, before the first game.

As several teams have not yet reported in, a final draft of the summer schedule is being delayed, it is reported by T. H. Reque, city recreation director.

When a final schedule is completed, copies of it will be distributed to various team managers and also published.

A new arrangement this season, Reque pointed out, is that all game balls will be furnished by an umpire-in-chief. Fees are assessed to provide this item. After a ball is used, it will be returned to the team manager, thus eliminating a double expense to sponsors. Adoption of this provision followed dissatisfaction with last year's plan.

Games will again be played at the court house diamond. A new backstop has been built and installed by the city. New plates and bases are on hand for the opening of the season.

Unassigned players are asked to contact association commissioners or team managers. Games will be played at 6:30 p. m. Monday through Thursday. Trophies will be provided for league winners and tournament finalists.

Especially are we grateful to those who sent spiritual and floral bouquets and other expressions of sympathy. The memory of these acts will ever remain with us.

Interested girls are urged to contact all prospective players they know and also to provide lists of probable entries at the meeting so that a regular round-robin schedule can be drawn for supervised and organized competition.

Diesel Hauls Trains 7 & 8

Traffic Officials On Trip To Sault

Soo Line passenger trains Nos. 7 and 8 came through Gladstone Monday powered with a two-unit Diesel locomotive.

The usual 7-car train had four extra cars carrying traffic officials which prompted the use of the Diesels.

The train left Sault Ste. Marie west bound one hour late and despite being stalled by caterpillars at No. 359, which railroaders say is near Garnet, and stopping at Cooks for a car of fish, it came into Gladstone only 15 minutes late.

John Lash, Gladstone, was at the throttle, and Earl Foster, Gladstone, was the fireman, when the train left Gladstone last evening for Minneapolis.

It was the second time in the history of the railroad when Diesel power hauled a passenger train on the Gladstone division. The other occurred when a General Motors demonstrator unit went through here a year or more ago west bound from the Soo.

If Daggett can humble Powers 16-3 and Powers beat Escanaba 5-4 what should Daggett do to the Bears next Sunday? ... Nobody knows, of course, and that's what makes the game an interesting one ... Since knocking the Bears off, Powers has lost to Bark River 7-2 and Perronville 16-1 ... The Bears beat both those clubs with comparative ease ... At least it serves as a reminder to the Bears, and any of the other top division Tri-County teams, that anything can happen on a particular Sunday.

Manager Leo Knauf's Bark River nine will get its first taste of night baseball this week ... The team will travel to Kingsford to meet the Northern Wisconsin-Michigan league club under the lights Wednesday night ... Those Kingsford lights, by the way, have caused quite a little trouble in the NWM circuit ... Many of the league teams felt that Kingsford had an advantage on the lighted field and refused to play the Cardinals in NWM competition at night.

The Upper Peninsula class B tennis championship won by Marquette Graveret Saturday was the fourth in a row for the Redmen ... The doubles crown won by Bill Brumm and Evan Karabetos was also the fourth consecutive ... The meet had been postponed from the previous Saturday ... The class C-D finals will be held at Stambaugh Thursday with Stambaugh, Wakefield, Crystal Falls and John D. Pierce entered.

Roy Pingel, husky junior who took first in a section of the 440-yard dash in the U. P. track and field championships here last month, was named captain-elect of the Bessemer Speed Boy track team of 1952 ... Coach Warren Smith, who piloted his team to the U. P. class C title for the second straight year, awarded 18 letters last week.

Baseball men here are trying to get that American Legion all-star team for an appearance with the Cubs ... The Motor City all-stars are under the direction of Joe Burkard and are rated one of the finest young teams in the country ... The barnstorming tour gets underway June 24 and will cover a number of major cities in the Peninsula.

SOX PARK ROBBERED—Frank Lane, general manager of the Chicago White Sox, points in the direction burglars took a two-ton safe from Comiskey Park. Burglars broke into the office of a concession firm and carried away the safe estimated to contain $75,000. Tigers Seeking First Division

Hitting Picks Up, Five Batting .300

BOSTON—(P)—The Detroit Tigers, their batting improved since their last turn around the circuit, are eyeing a first division berth.

The Bengals open a 22-game eastern tour here tonight against the Boston Red Sox. They won't see Briggs stadium again until July 4.

Right now manager Red Rolfe's boys, boasting seven wins in their last eight starts, are one and a half games out of fourth place.

They'd like to make up that difference, but quick.

"I think we have a first division club," Rolfe says. "We should be up there."

Rolfe emphatically doesn't want a repetition of his last experience in Boston. The Tigers dropped three of four May 20-21-22.

Then they went on to New York and lost three of four there, too. That was the start of a streak in which they were beaten in 12 of 13 games.

The present tour calls for series in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Chicago and Cleveland.

The Tigers' hopes of gaining an upper division berth will rest on how well they do against the league leaders—second place New York, third place Boston, first place Chicago and fourth place Cleveland.

Their recent hitting spree, combined with the above-average pitching they have been receiving all year, indicates that they might make the grade.

Over the last eight games the Tigers have scored 57 runs on 91 hits. Five players now are hitting .300 or better.

They are Dick Kryhoski (.342), George Kell (.327), Johnny Groth (.311), Vic Wertz (.308) and Joe Gussberg (.300).

Against the Red Sox tonight, Rolfe expects to start either Ted Gray (1-6) or Virgil Trucks (1-0)

City Recreation Deadline Friday

Blanks Available At Recreation Center

Deadline for all entries in the junior baseball and softball program of the city recreation department is Friday, June 15. Director Jerome Deloria reminded today.

Entry blanks are available at the recreation center and the ball diamonds. The program covers from eight through 14 years of age.

Baseball suits will be given out to the first 12 boys forming teams. Three sets of suits are available at the center.

Practice, organization of teams and signing of players will take place Wednesday morning at 10 at Royce Park, Wednesday at 1:30 at Dock diamond, Thursday morning and Friday all day at the recreation center.

All players signing entry blanks are asked to designate whether they will play baseball or softball. The six substitutes from each team in the Little League may also play in the city recreational league, Director Deloria stated.

The six players from each team are asked to join with six from another team to form one entry, so that they will not be broken up. A game schedule will be arranged.

Bears Book Saturday Game With Kingsford

The Iron Mountain-Kingsford Cardinals, combined this season into a strong Northern Wisconsin-Michigan league entry, will appear here in an exhibition clash Saturday evening against the Escanaba Bears. It was announced today.

The Cardinals, perennial powerhouse in the NWM league, topped the Iron River Redlegs 2-0 in 10 innings in their last start. Mathiessen, veteran Twin-City hurler, tossed two-hit ball at the Redlegs.

Other Mountaineer-Kingsford veterans on the roster include "Chin" Fornetti, Wickman, Guiney, Rittenhouse, Cini and Steiner.

Nellie Fox New Leader

Little League Opens With Pitching Duel

A brilliant pitching battle sparked the opener of the Little League Saturday with Gary Paler of St. Joe Boosters besting Charley McCarthy of Kiwanis in a 4-3 duel.

Going into the top of the fifth, Paler was working on a no-hitter, but a walk, two errors, a scratch hit to short and another error allowed three runs and Kiwanis led 3-1.

St. Joe picked up a run in the bottom of the fifth and tied it up in the sixth on Bob Lancour's double, a stolen base and fielder's choice.

Winning Run With one away in the eighth, Margere powdered a double through the infield and scored the winning run on an overthrow at third.

Paler fanned 17 of the 29 men he faced and allowed three hits, one less than St. Joe collected off McCarthy, who racked up eight strike-out victims.

The second game of the double-header between Rotary and Lions was rained out in the second inning and will be made up at a later date.

The league swings back into action Thursday with Rotary facing St. Joe at 3 at Memorial Field with the Kiwanis-Lions game following.

Both League Leaders Swing Away From Home

By JOHN CHANDLER Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox and Brooklyn Dodgers, leaders in their respective major league races, began another swing through foreign territory tonight nursing various minor aches and pains. They hope no serious complications develop.

Manager Paul Richards parades his White Sox, their American league lead trimmed to two and a half games by the New York Yankees, into Washington for a night game against the Senators.

Brooklyn, sporting a five and one half game National league edge, opens its second western tour of the season against the Cardinals tonight in St. Louis.

Catcher Gus Niarhos and right-fielder Al Zarilla of the pennant-hungry White Sox are suffering from groin injuries, pitcher Howie Judson's shoulder is aching, and outfielder Ed Stewart has been running a fever. In addition, pitcher Harry Dorish has been called home to Swoyersville, Pa., because of the death of an infant daughter.

Nevertheless, Chicago hopes to fatten its win column at Washington. The Chisox have belted the Senators seven times this year, losing only one game. Lou Kretlow, who stopped Washington with four hits last week, is Richards' pitching choice in the opener of the three-game series. Connie Marrero goes for the Senators.

The White Sox have four games in Philadelphia before moving to New York and Boston for a couple of tough series which should show which way the pennant wind is blowing.

Manager Chuck Dressen of the Dodgers will shoot Preacher Roe and his eight-win-and-no-loss record at the Cards. This is the first of 13 games the Bums play in the west, and Dressen hopes 13 is a lucky number.

Big Don Newcombe has a sore shoulder and will miss one and maybe two pitching turns, thus upsetting the Brooklyn hurling rotation. The weather has been cold and damp in Flatbush, and Dressen hopes some hot days will help Newcombe's flipper. Gerald Staley (7-5) is nominated to oppose Roe.

Brooklyn won six and lost three on its last western trip, and if anyone is going to stop the Dodger flag rush they had better start the stopping. During the home stand just ended, Dressen's club took the west seven to three. The Cardinals were dumped three straight at Ebbets field.

Cubs-Phillies The Cincinnati Reds, who copied seven of nine games in the east and moved into second place, entertain the New York Giants under the lights.

Howie Fox is slated for mound duty for the Redlegs, opposed by either Dave Koso or Monti Kennedy of New York.

The Chicago Cubs, who skidded from third to sixth place in the east when they dropped seven of 10 games, open at home against the champion Philadelphia Phillies. Ken Heintzelman is to oppose Frank Hillier of the Cubs.

Boston's Braves, after losing seven of 11 games at home, move into Pittsburgh to oppose the cellar-dwelling Pirates. Cliff Chambers will tangle with the Braves' Johnny Sain in the opener.

The New York Yankees, who won three of four from Chicago to barely get out of the west with a 6-5 edge, are home for 13 games. Manager Casey Stengel's world champions have three games with the St. Louis Browns starting to-outfielder Ed Stewart has been running a fever. In addition, pitcher Harry Dorish has been called home to Swoyersville, Pa., because of the death of an infant daughter.

Nevertheless, Chicago hopes to fatten its win column at Washington. The Chisox have belted the Senators seven times this year, losing only one game. Lou Kretlow, who stopped Washington with four hits last week, is Richards' pitching choice in the opener of the three-game series. Connie Marrero goes for the Senators.

The White Sox have four games in Philadelphia before moving to New York and Boston for a couple of tough series which should show which way the pennant wind is blowing.

Manager Chuck Dressen of the Dodgers will shoot Preacher Roe and his eight-win-and-no-loss record at the Cards. This is the first of 13 games the Bums play in the west, and Dressen hopes 13 is a lucky number.

Big Don Newcombe has a sore shoulder and will miss one and maybe two pitching turns, thus upsetting the Brooklyn hurling rotation. The weather has been cold and damp in Flatbush, and Dressen hopes some hot days will help Newcombe's flipper. Gerald Staley (7-5) is nominated to oppose Roe.

Brooklyn won six and lost three on its last western trip, and if anyone is going to stop the Dodger flag rush they had better start the stopping. During the home stand just ended, Dressen's club took the west seven to three. The Cardinals were dumped three straight at Ebbets field.

Cubs-Phillies The Cincinnati Reds, who copied seven of nine games in the east and moved into second place, entertain the New York Giants under the lights.

Howie Fox is slated for mound duty for the Redlegs, opposed by either Dave Koso or Monti Kennedy of New York.

The Chicago Cubs, who skidded from third to sixth place in the east when they dropped seven of 10 games, open at home against the champion Philadelphia Phillies. Ken Heintzelman is to oppose Frank Hillier of the Cubs.

Ben Hogan Calls Oakland Toughest Course He's Seen

DETROIT — (P)—Ben Hogan has seen a lot of golf courses in his time. And you can take it from him:

The Oakland Hills course, site of the national open that starts here Thursday, is "the toughest I've ever seen."

The slight Texan, defending champion, explains it this way:

"First, off the tee there is so little room to land shots out in the real driving range."

"Second, if you do manage to land on the fairway, real work is cut out for you to hit the green."

"Finally, those greens are so large that you're more apt to three putt than two putt."

Ideal Golfer The ideal golfer for the course, he said on the basis of his experience in five practice rounds, is "the man who is an unusually short driver and an unusually long iron player."

But Hogan added, "I don't know of a golfer who fits that description."

The Oakland Hills layout, Ban-tam Ben said, "handicaps long hitters by taking away the premium chances for the losers with Ken Olsen catching."

Don Paulin and Joe Freiden collected three for four and Bud Kenneally four for five for Power and Light. Ken Olsen homered for Ev's.

In the National League Liberty Loan pinned the first loss of the season on St. Thomas in a 12-6 upset. Slug Chourard worked all the way on the hill for the winners and allowed only four hits with Harold Juel behind the plate.

New Entry George Bartley and Jim Ottensman made up the St. Thomas battery. Bartley sent 14 Liberty Loan batters down swinging and allowed seven hits.

The Escanaba Township team of Flat Rock has reorganized and will enter National League competition, it was announced today. The following practice games have been scheduled for this week:

Wednesday—Township vs. St. Ann's at Royce.

Thursday — Township vs. St. Thomas at Dock.

A schedule change will put the Clairmont Transfer - Paper Mill game Wednesday night at Dock diamond instead of Royce Park.

No Name Win Behind steady pitching of Ike Eis, No Names overcame a two-run deficit and trimmed the Harnischfeger team 5-2 last night.

Besides his line pitching chore, Eis contributed a two-run single in the sixth after J. Besson had driven in Pete Him with the tying run in the fifth. The Harnies scored one in the first and one in the second.

Eil allowed seven hits while Steve Vugrin was nipped for nine on the Harnie hill. No Names had three errors, Harnischfeger none.

Cubs Will Invade Wilson Wednesday The Cubs of the Waubung league will invade Wilson for a Wednesday afternoon exhibition tilt, it was announced today by Manager Al Ness.

The Cubs opened their Waubung league schedule on a successful hot Sunday by blanking Powers 9-0. Wilson is a member of the Tri-County circuit.

READY FOR TOURNNEY OMAHA—(P)—The nation's best college baseball teams rolled in today for the NCAA tournament. Eight teams begin play in the double elimination tournament tomorrow.

that they've been working for all their lives.

"I contend that straightness and distance off the tees should pay off. But here there is no premium for 275-yard drives no matter how perfectly they're played. You're simply bound to catch trouble on long hit."

Worsham Agrees Lew Worsham, the 1947 champion, agreed with Hogan.

"A 230-yard driver is safe," he said. "He not only doesn't reach the trap, but he has a wider fairway in that range."

"That's right," Hogan said, "the long hitter and the short hitter don't have the same targets."

"For my part, I've never been on a course in all my life that I couldn't figure out some way to play. Usually, two rounds are enough."

Max Toushak Is Fatally Injured At Paper Mill

Max Toushak, 39, 1112 South 11th street, died at 1:45 p. m. yesterday in St. Francis hospital of injuries sustained in an accident at the Escanaba Paper Company mill where he was employed as a color press operator.

His left arm and shoulder were crushed between the rolls of the press, fracturing ribs and puncturing his lung.

The accident occurred at 7 a. m. yesterday and was not immediately observed.

Caught In Rolls

Toushak apparently was beneath the press engaged in scraping coating material off the rolls of the press he was operating, according to P. J. Kelly, Escanaba Paper company personnel manager.

D. C. for a week's vacation. Kathleen will return to Milwaukee for the summer session at the university.

The machine was running and Toushak's arm was pulled in between the revolving rolls up to his shoulder. Wilfred Trudell, maintenance employee in the paper mill, saw Toushak in the machine and George Snyder, operator of a press nearby, who turned off the press in which Toushak was caught.

It was necessary to loosen one of the rolls and pry it up to release the injured man, who was then rushed to the hospital by ambulance. Blood donors were called for shortly after noon.

Employed 17 Years

Mr. Toushak who was a life-long resident of Escanaba, was born in Manitowish, Wis., June 3, 1912, and his parents moved here when he was a year old.

He attended the public schools and for the past 17 years had been employed by the Escanaba Paper Company.

He married Marion Abenstein in September of 1937.

He was a member of the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers, Local 209.

Funeral Wednesday

He was an ardent sportsman, devoting much of his spare time to fishing and hunting and he also was interested in carpentry as a hobby.

Surviving are his wife and two children, Robert, 12, and Judy, 6; his father, Charles Toushak, sr., of Escanaba; and the following brothers and sisters: Irene, Charles, jr., and Clarence, Escanaba; Francis of Madison, Wis.; and Kenneth and Mrs. Catherine Vergies, Escanaba.

"I am Mrs. John Cabanis of Mason City, Iowa. Two years ago, my picture appeared in an advertisement, with the pictures of eleven other of the owners of Standard Oil and its subsidiary companies. Besides my name and address, all the ad said about me was that I am a widow who has owned Standard Oil stock for many years, and that the dividends from it helped put my son through college.

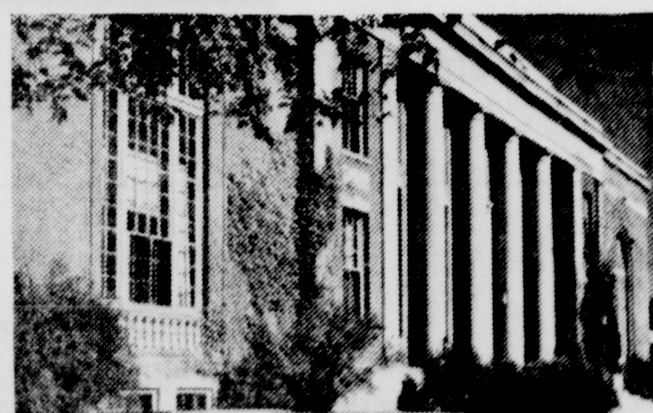

Soon after the ad appeared I began receiving mail from people I'd never heard of. Some of them seemed surprised that a big company like Standard Oil is owned by a great many everyday people.

"I myself had learned from the company's annual report that there are many thousands of owners of Standard Oil, including a number of business firms and educational and charitable institutions.

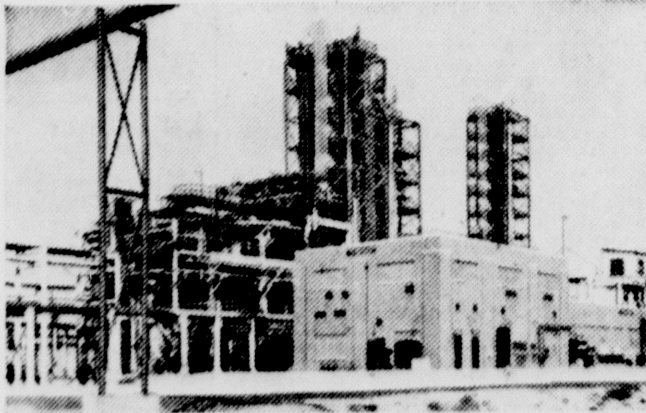

Most of the owners are people like me and like you. We invested our money, and as a return on this investment, Standard Oil pays us dividends.

Dividends paid last year had a value of $3.14 per share. The company has paid dividends for 58 consecutive years. And, our investment is working for us and for a great many other people, too. Because of it, Standard Oil is able continually to build up its facilities for serving its customers. And it helps the company to create more and better paying jobs.

It's nice to know that. It makes me feel more useful and more important—and it's a feeling that nearly everyone could share, by becoming a partner in some American business, as I am one of the more than 118,000 partners in Standard Oil."

AMONG OUR STOCKHOLDERS are many institutions—educational institutions like Coe College of Cedar Rapids, Iowa; charitable organizations, and hundreds of insurance companies and business firms. No institutional stockholder owns so much as 4% of our stock, and no individual owns so much as 1%.

THE MONEY Mrs. Cabanis and her fellow stockholders have invested makes possible the average of $31,400 in tools and equipment back of each Standard Oil worker which helps him to produce more, earn more and have steadier work. The public benefits, too, by being assured of a dependable supply of quality petroleum products.
